Please describe what you have learned and feel impressed about the work, people and life. Give suggestions and tips to other students who are interested in applying for the opportunity.

In this internship in UT Dallas, I learned not only English conversation and social skills, but also some different things we had never studied in Wenzao. For example, reimbursement and budget. Through these tasks, we need to check the accounting records form excel sheets, and classify these documents efficiently and correctly. We used many critical thinking while we are working. That is an important part that I learned a lot in American environment. The thing I feel impressed about the work is introduce myself to the donors in public through the official meeting. It was my first time to introduce myself to these big shots from different places. I felt a little bit nervous but it's really a good chance to grow up.

Through this internship, I experienced different American culture in person, just like trick or treating on Halloween, and went to the state fair of Texas. We also have many flexible times to explore the other cities. The activity I feel the most impressed is the trip in Austin. It is a beautiful city full of Latin American culture style. Not only the views, but also the foods are definitely worth visiting.

From my suggestions to the students who are interested, I think to be independent and fearless are the tips if you live abroad. Everything is new for you, so you must have the ability to adapt the new environment and give yourself a chance to try. When you meet any problems, don't hesitate to ask. However, it will be better if you try to come up with the solution yourself before you ask. At last, keep curiosity and have an enthusiastic mind, so that you can discover more objects beyond your imagination.

American lives are far more different from Taiwanese. Comparing to spoon-feeding education in Taiwan, American tends to be more individualism. Therefore, I have learned a lot on training my critical thinking which highly related to problem solving skills. I become more independent and control well on my budget through this internship. I have solved piles of problems such as scams, card issue and transportation. Only if I act positively on my right, or problem wouldn't be settled down without starting any action.

People are extremely friendly to everyone and it is contagious. When I first came here, I thought it was really strange to greet and start a short conversation with a person who I have never seen. Somehow I get used to it now and deeply feel the comfort about talking with people and sharing my own experience. Furthermore, I joined lots of activities in UTD which emphasized on cultural diversity. Students and faculty members are respectful on the differences between the race, gender and culture.

I have never been in the U.S. before, I have changed a lot only in this short term. I thought semester internship is suitable for students to experience local lifestyle while planning some trips. "Work hard, play hard." Furthermore, this opportunity will be perfectly suitable for people who still wondering about the future. Not only for expanding horizon, interns will be asked to set up goals and achieve it at last.

Besides took good care of housework at home, I also had to be responsible for my job at work. I had to remember every cars' condition. For example, the car was for detailing or fixing, and the car was inventory or the sold one. What was more, I had to deal with payroll for coworkers and took care of bills for the company. 2. Optimism. From the internship, I knew how it was so important to open my mind to get to know many people as I could and did my best to figure out how to work with coworkers peacefully. By the time I became their friend, they helped me a lot on work as well as showed me many fun things and beautiful places that only local people would know and go. During this time, I also experienced many activities that I had never thought I could do it, such as hiking and surfing. Keep an outgoing attitude, not only let me live in a foreign country easily but also helped me explore myself in many surprise ways. 3. Nimbleness. Unlike a student, there were seldom things I could prepare for work. Everything could happen suddenly and urgently. Under this circumstance, I had to be calm and rack my brain to think many different ways to get things done. It was a taboo that just sit and wait others to help.

Aloha!! First, it is my pleasure to have an internship in Hawaii such a dream place for most of the people. It is obvious to say that it is a great place for taking vacation. Working at Auto X-Change may face many challenges at the very first period, but there will be fulfillment once you overcome it. Boss and colleagues treat interns nice and well and sometimes even hang out together to have meal. Every day you will learn new stuff different from what you learned at school and it is helpful to gain experiences from the internship. You will get involved into many procedures and professions related to car, which you will be more familiar with cars afterwards. Beside working day, exploring those beautiful scenes and beaches of the island is fantastic. This is such a great and worth chance for you to have a different year. Last, give it a try and you will become a better yourself in the future!!

Suggestions and tips:

1. Be responsible to each task
2. Be persistent no matter how busy of the work
3. Always be passionate at work
4. Nothing will work unless you try, learn and do
5. Don't be afraid to make mistakes
